Two Midtown homes up for landmark protection

By William Kelly
Daily News Staff Writer

Two relatively modest Midtown houses, both built in the Mediterranean Revival style, may soon become the town's latest historic landmarks.

The Landmarks Preservation Commission

recommended earlier this month that the Town Council designate as landmarks the houses at 307 Brazilian and 218 Seaspray avenues. The council could consider the homes as soon as its next meeting on Dec. 11.

The house at 307 Brazilian Ave. was designed by architect Carlos B. Schoepl and built by Burnip & Sims in 1935. It has an asymmetrical design with intersecting gable and shed roofs surfaced with clay barrel tiles and highlighted with exposed rafters, according to the designation report by town consultants Murphy Stillings.

Owner renames Worth Avenue via after himself

To the displeasure of some council members, a Worth Avenue property owner is renaming a via after himself.

The Town Council unanimously approved a request this month to rename Via DeMario to Via Newsome after the via's owner, John Newsome Jr.

Worth Avenue, a street distinguished by its vias (tucked-away shopping quarters off the main road), has never officially changed the name of any of its vias, Director of Planning, Zoning and Building Josh Martin told the council. But Martin, along with Newsome's attorney, Peter Carney, said Worth Avenue has a history of property owners unofficially changing the names of its vias.

"They were just done by word of mouth," Martin told the council. "They were changed in the middle of the night."

Still, the council seemed confused by the request.

"I just have a quick question," Council President Danielle Moore said during the meeting. "Why do we want to rename the via?"

Carney responded, "Because the owner requests it."

Trump back to D.C. after five golf-filled days here

By Ian Cohen
Daily News Staff Writer

On his final day in Palm Beach County, President Donald Trump unleashed a whirlwind of tweets about the migrant caravan, his upcoming trip to Mississippi and thanked himself for what he said are falling oil prices before spending about five hours at Trump International Golf Club.

The president left on Air Force One with the first lady and son, Barron, at 4:35 p.m. Sunday to return to Washington.

Trump, who during his presidency has spent the Thanksgiving holidays at Mar-a-Lago, spent his time in Palm Beach much the same way as previous visits: airing political grievances on Twitter and visiting his suburban West Palm Beach golf club.

After arriving Tuesday night, Trump visited his golf club each of the five days he spent in Florida. Except for confirming his golf game with Jack Nicklaus on Wednesday, the White House did not respond to questions about what the president was doing or whom he was with.

On Twitter and in a Thanksgiving teleconference with soldiers Thursday, Trump focused on the migrant caravan in Mexico, saying the

THE BUZZ AT PAN'S GARDEN

A bee collects pollen and nectar from recently planted goldenrod Saturday at Pan's Garden at the Preservation Foundation of Palm Beach. When the new director of horticulture, Susan Lerner, started last summer, one of her priorities was to plant native plants to attract butterflies and bees. The garden is open every day from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Great looks

American Heart Association kicks off season with Gatsby-themed fashion show

By Carla Trivino
Daily News Staff Writer

The American Heart Association brought to life the roaring '20s at the Royal Poinciana Plaza earlier this month. Guests were entertained by the Palm Beach Ballet's performance from their show "Gatsby" and a fashion show continuing the theme with elegant party outfits.

Models at the Nov. 15 event posed on pedestals around the courtyard wearing pieces from 100% Capri, Collective, Valentina Kova, Cremieux, Cynthia Rowley and Bogнар & Piccolini.

For girls, a white dress perfect for daytime events from 100% Capri had a cascading ruffle adorned with flowers. For a holiday dinner, Bogнар & Piccolini's black velvet dress is adorably contrasted with a white top and silver sash. The white bow in the hair can be switched for a sparkly headband or updo.

Cremieux styled some of the men's looks, including an outfit great for dinner around town. The salmon pants paired with a white collared shirt and a pin-striped navy jacket nail the casual-but-put-together vibe to pull this off. For evening pieces for women, Cynthia Rowley's maxi dress was a purple dream with tiny hearts that take the shape of polka dots from afar, sheer cuffed sleeves and ruffles. The model's hairstyle was classic 1920s with a short updo and finger waves styled by Paul Labrecque Salon. Another fabulous purple look was Valentina Kova's cocktail dress with bell sleeves accessorized with a fur collar.

Even some of the night's guests dressed in theme, giving a taste of what's to come at this year's 64th annual Heart Ball. The event, said to be the oldest continuously running black-tie gala in Palm Beach, will take place at The Breakers on Feb. 15.

Cremieux paired bright-colored pants with a simple white button up and a $1,195 pinstriped blue jacket.

Valentina Kova's fur scarf ($315) is paired with a stretch silk dress with bell sleeves ($1,900).

Cynthia Rowley's Bella Hearts Maxi dress perfectly combines shine and sheer ($495).

Bognar & Piccolini's little girl's dress pairs a black velvet skirt and cream top ($195).

100% Capri had some resort looks for men also including a white button-up with gray slacks.

From Bogнар & Piccolini, this $145 white silk two-piece look is finished with a cream pullover with sparkle accents.

Ballet Palm Beach dancers took over the courtyard's dance floor with a performance from their show "Gatsby."

This little girl's dress in white from 100% Capri is perfect for a holiday luncheon or day activity.
